

GREAT MILEAGE. EVEN BETTER CRASH TEST RATINGS.

WHIRLYBALL

HOSTILE TAKEOVERS ENCOURAGED

WhirlyBall combines lacrosse, hockey, basketball, and bumper cars in a game of skill, chance, honor, and vengeance. Basically, players use hand-held scoops to pass a whiffle ball to each other – and ultimately at a scoring target. But while the score certainly matters to some, most people find themselves preoccupied with making their friends look silly. And eating wings. Lots and lots of wings.

GIVE YOUR CORPORATE EVENT A KICK IN THE BLACKBERRIES.

Workforce suffering from low morale, poor team spirit, or a general lack of alcohol? Complete with private conference rooms and wireless Internet to boot, WhirlyBall can easily accommodate corporate events of up to 500 people. Granted, WhirlyBall isn't exactly intended for stodgy old cranks in gray suits and power ties. But our client list reads like an issue of Forbes. Nike, Allstate, Target, Microsoft, and Kodak all play WhirlyBall. And maybe we're not responsible for their massive international success, but you never know. Maybe we are.

A GREAT PLACE TO BUMP INTO FRIENDS.

It doesn't matter if you're having a bachelor party, birthday party, bar/bat mitzvah, or reunion. Everybody loves WhirlyBall. Because traditional parties may have merits, but they typically lack one important ingredient: bumper cars. Trust us. Bumper cars make friendships better. Bumper cars make dates better. Bumper cars even make beer better. And that's saying something.

Now in our professional opinion, nothing is as fun as WhirlyBall. But LaserTron, a climbing wall, video games, enormous televisions, foosball, and giant double cheeseburgers sure come close. We at WhirlyBall refuse to take chances, so we lumped it all under one giant roof. If you can't have fun at WhirlyBall, you're either an inanimate object or some sort of weird invertebrate that lives in subterranean caverns.
